

Into the Unknown

Walking 'round the corner into the unknown, believing that I know how to react
To all that waits there, all that lies ahead. I'm walking fast, I know what I expect
But this world, it doesn't limit situations to all those that I can think of So things happen that I don't see coming. Some times I wonder: „How the hell did I get here?“

*Life always turns out to be different than you thought it would
It's naive to believe to know all possible scenarios*

Waiting for the answer, expecting it to be obvious – either a yes or a no
But it happens to be something different. I haven't realized yet that this could be the way
This is not what I signed up for. Hang on – I have to adjust
To this situation, a new one for me, but I think that this is gonna be good, yeah

*Life always turns out to be different than you thought it would
It's naive to believe to know all possible scenarios*

Once you accept the fact that the future refuses to be planned by you
You realize that life is exciting 'cause you don't know where you're going to

Met you on a Tuesday, it was planned some time ago. I was sure I had it all figured out Thought I had a plan, thought I was prepared for what I was walking into
So I was caught by surprise – there was someone else. How come this did not cross my mind before?
Needed to take a very deep breath to be able to deal with it

*Life always turns out to be different than you thought it would
It's naive to believe to know all possible scenarios*

Once you accept the fact that the future refuses to be planned by you
You realize that life is exciting 'cause you don't know where you're going to

If you knew it all you would be bored, so it's better this way (better this way)
If you knew it all you would be bored, so it's better this way, better this way