

Never Wake Up

Somedays life's like an endless self-deception
The end is near, there are no desires
No feelings left, you're a slave
And want to escape into your illusion

But you don't seem to come to terms with your life
No way to face yourself
Deaf to the voice of reason inside
You will never hear it unless you wake up

These days in a world full of liars
You look around, it makes you sick
But somehow you have to admit
That you're one of them, you are in their midst

But you don't seem to come to terms with your life
No way to face yourself
Deaf to the voice of reason inside
You will never hear it unless you wake up

*Blinded by reality
There's so much more than they can see
Never regret
They don't want to understand
Why should I give them another helping hand
Oh, it's time to turn away*

But you don't seem to come to terms with your life
No way to face yourself
Deaf to the voice of reason inside
You'll lose it all if you ever wake up

But you don't seem to come to terms with your life
No way to face yourself
Deaf to the voice of reason inside
You won't ever hear it, you'll fail to wake up
Until you're dead
